

Freele: Online Marketplace for Freelance Services

Chapter 1:

INTRODUCTION

Freele is an online marketplace that provides a two-sided platform for all users to buy and sell a variety of digital services typically offered by freelance service providers. Digital services offered on this site include graphics design, digital marketing, web design, web development and programming & tech.

Sellers can publish services on this platform and earn per completed tasks depends on how much they offered their services and buyers can order on that services. After completing the order each buyer can give feedback on that service. Each user can communicate with one another 24/7. Any users can search services from this site and sort services by recent time, month or year and also sort services from minimum to maximum prices. If any user needs any services they can post their requirements and another freelancer can give him an offer for that task. From all the offers provided by another freelancer, the seller can check their offer and hire any freelancer for doing that specific task.

Freele is a web-based application that's available 24/7. No need to install it because all the PCs and mobiles have a browser. If anyone has an internet connection on their PC or Mobile they can easily visit this site from anywhere in the world. It also provides a clean and user-friendly interface to the users.

1.1 Purpose:

The purpose of this project is to hiring or getting hired as a freelancer and to reach buyers who want to purchase other seller's services. This marketplace trying to reduce the unemployment rate and helps to build trust between buyers and sellers.

1.2 Need/Motivation:

People are losing their jobs due to the COVID-19 pandemic and consequent lockdown. In this situation, people are trying to do something online for earning money and others are trying to do their jobs at low cost. That's why they need a platform for done their job online. From Freele they can hire freelancers for their work and freelancers can earn money from doing their jobs.

Chapter 2:

LITERATURE SURVEY

Online marketplaces take a commission of 10-20% from their user per order that they have completed which are very high rate from their earning. Some of the users are very disappointed with their high commission rate. They have allowed only a limited number of services to be published on their platform and allow to sending a limited number of requests to the buyer. Buyers also have permission to post only a limited number of requests on their platform.

Freele provides a solution to this problem. This system takes only 2.5% commission on every transaction which is a very low-rated commission and tries to gain all user satisfactions. It provides a clean and interactive user-friendly interface. This system has no limit to publish services as a new or an old seller. Any user can publish as many services as they want by simply choosing the categories available on this platform and they also can send requests to the buyer's job posts but only one request sent to one single job post. Buyers will also be able to post as many requests as they want by simply choosing the categories available on this platform.

Objectives

- selling high-quality services to the buyer with his satisfaction

3.5 Waterfall Model

I choose the waterfall model for this system (Freele: Online Marketplace for freelance services).

All the sequential phases in the waterfall model are –

Requirement Gathering and analysis: All possible functional and non-functional requirements of this system to be developed are collected and documented.

System Design: Specifying hardware and system requirements and defining overall system architecture.

Implementation: Translated system design into source code using programming language.

Testing: All the developed units are integrated into the system after testing each unit.

Deployment: The system will be deployed after completing all the functional and non-functional tests.

Maintenance: Fixing all the issues that come up from the client environment.

Why I Choose the Waterfall model for this system?

- Requirements are well known, clear and fixed for this system.
- There is no ambiguity in the requirements for this system.
- This model is easy to manage.
- The technology is understood and well incorporated into the project.
- All the processes, actions and results are very well documented.
- Easy to arrange all the tasks.
- In this model, phases are processed and completed one at a time. Phases are not overlapped.

Thus the waterfall model is the best suited for this system.

3.6 Feasibility Study:

Feasibility study is performed to evaluate feasibility of project- Freele: Online Marketplace for Freelance Services. After doing this, we can have a clear-cut view of this system's benefits and drawbacks.

3.6.1 Technical Feasibility:

- This system is developed using html, css, bootstrap, js, jquery as frontend tool and Nodejs, expressjs, mongodb as backend tool.
- Mozilla or Chrome web browser is used to view the web page.
- Since this system is web-based that's why only internet connectivity is required for browsing this system.
- Technical team has enough knowledge to develop this system.
- Maintenance and up-gradation are easy for chosen technology.

So, the system is technically feasible.

3.6.2 Operational Feasibility:

- This system can save the time of customers and benefited them.
- This system could do all the operational activities easily and effectively.
- This system can provide reliable services.
- I tried to make this system best user friendly for the customers.

So, the system is operationally feasible.

3.6.3 Economic Feasibility:

- The cost of this system is almost negligible when compared to the benefits gained.
- All the software and hardware are available at a low price for developed this system

So, the system is economically feasible.

3.6.4 Legal Feasibility:

- This system hasn't any government harassment content.
- This system would not share any personal details, private communication, private transaction history with another user.
- This system would provide a high-security interface and protect their personal data would not share with another user.
- This system fully maintains social media laws and doesn't have any copyrighted content.

So, the system is legally feasible.

3.6.5 Schedule Feasibility:

- This system is possible to develop within the stipulated time frame.
- The development of this system will be completed before our using technology becomes obsolete.

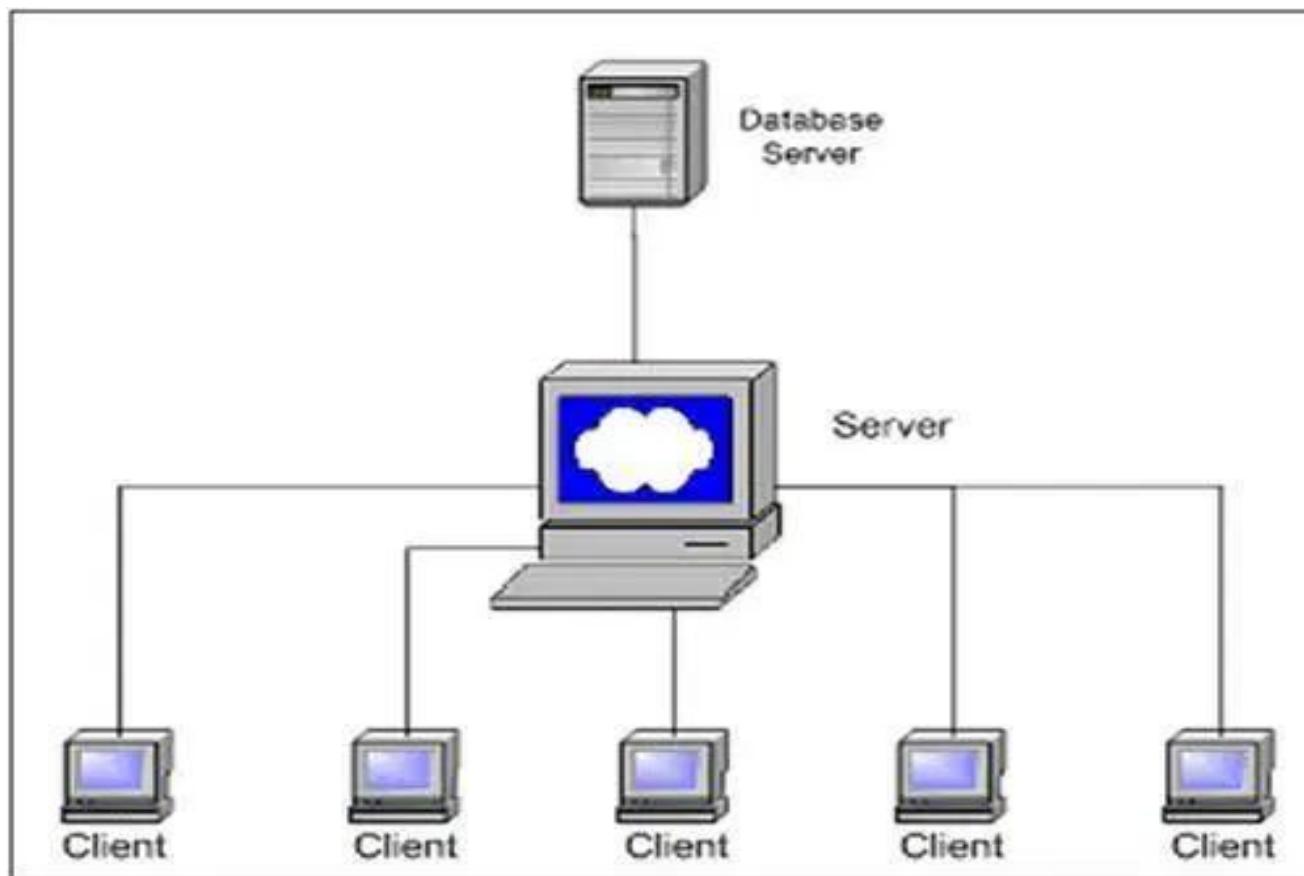

So, the system is schedule feasible.

Chapter 4:

SYSTEM ARCHITECTURE

4.1 Client-Server Architecture

A server machine is a host that runs one or more server programs, which share its resources with clients and the database stored all results. Mostly clients and servers communicate over a computer network on separate hardware, but both client and server may reside in the same system. A client usually does not share any of its resources, but it requests resources from a server.

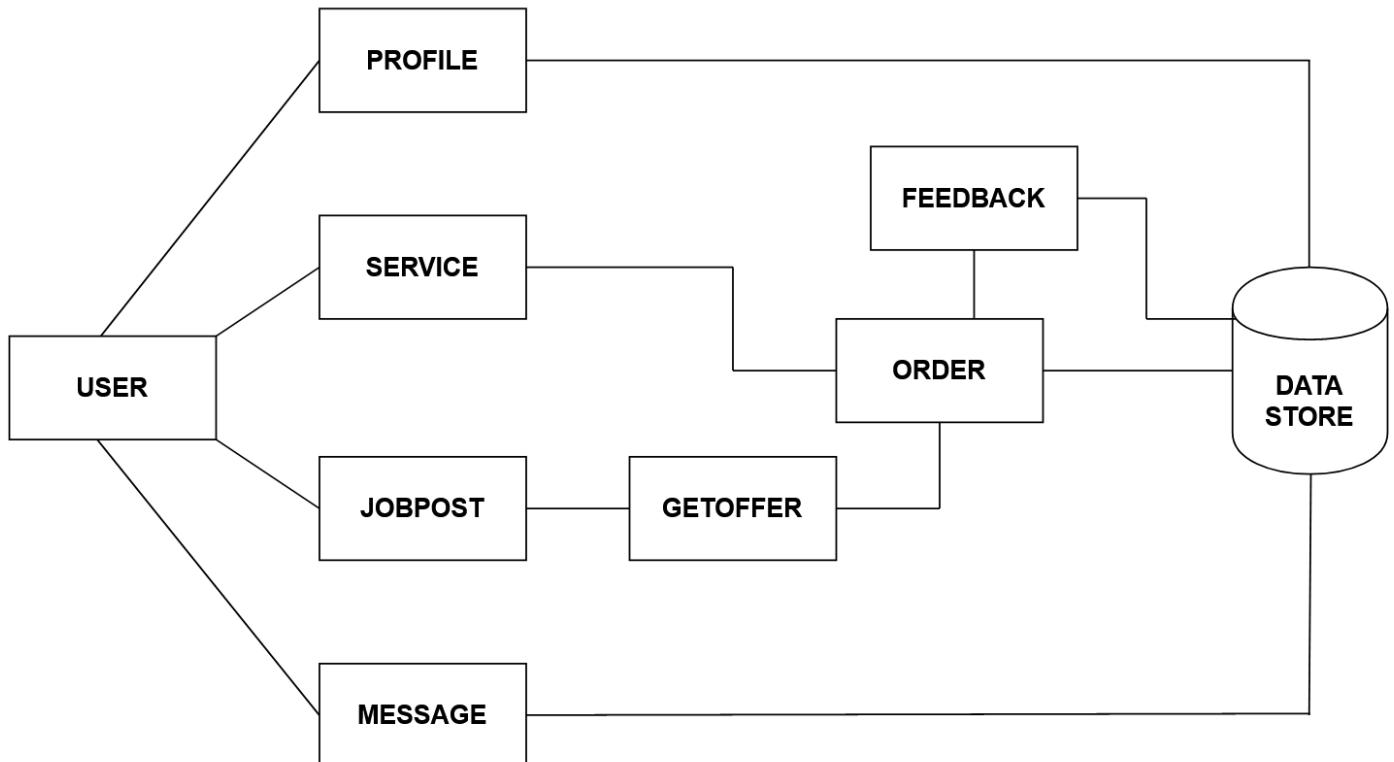

Servers wait for client's requests to arrive and then respond to them. Client computers request resources from the server and provide an interface to display the results or responses that the server returns and the database stored all the results or responses.

The client sent requests from the freele user interface for signin, signup, publish any services, publish or offer for the job post and sent feedback then the server returns a desired result or response for that request and the database stored all valid and required result or response.

4.2 System Architecture of Freele

Users can create, update and delete their own profiles. They can publish, edit and delete their own services and other users can create order on their services and give a rating on their services. They can publish, edit and delete their own job posts and other users can send offers on their posts. From those offers, they can select any offer and create an order. Users also can communicate with each other.

Chapter 5:

6.6.11 Order Service

6.6.11.1 Checkout

The screenshot shows a checkout page on the Freele website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Freele logo, a search bar, and links for Home, Services, Posts, Users, Category, and a user profile icon. The main title "CHECKOUT" is centered at the top of the page. Below it, there is a service listing: "I will build asp net MVC, asp dot net core professional web application." with a price of "$15.00". To the right, a summary table shows the breakdown of costs: SubTotal $15.00, Charge $0.38, and Total $15.38. A large blue "Pay Now" button is prominently displayed.

6.6.11.2 Payment Using Stripe Payment Method

The screenshot shows a service listing for "I will build asp net professional web application" by "john123". The listing includes a Microsoft .NET MVC logo and a price of $15.00. A payment modal is overlaid on the page, prompting the user to pay $15.38 using a sample card (4242 4242 4242 4242, exp 08/21, CVV 343). The modal also displays the email john123@gmail.com. To the right of the modal, a summary table shows SubTotal: $15.00, Charge: $0.38, and Total: $15.38. A "Pay Now" button is visible at the bottom right of the modal.

6.6.11.3 Payment Receipt

The receipt email is titled "Receipt from acct_1ldzHCFg4hexdgV3" and includes the receipt number #1775-7660. It details the payment information: Amount Paid $15.38, Date Paid June 29, 2021, and Payment Method VISA - 4242. The "SUMMARY" section shows a single charge for $15.38 labeled "Sample Charge". Below the receipt, there is a note about viewing it in the browser and a message about the email being sent due to a purchase.

| 05/29/2021 |  | Graphics Design | Logo Design | A logo isn't just a tiny piece of art; it's the building block your company needs to build a strong brand identity with. Using a custom logo on various parts of your business, such as website, packaging, label, social media, printed materials, etc., gets your brand the much-needed visibility. A logo becomes timeless when it uniquely identifies your brand from your competitors. | 5 | 50 |
